20th Century Russian Literature Writing Revolution

You say you want a revolution? Well, you know...Russia of the 20th century is the place to go! This course considers the roots, artistry and effect of Russian art and letters during its most turbulent century. We start just before “failed” revolution of 1905 then move on to representations of 1917 and beyond. Our main themes that guide our exploration of the notion of revolution in Russian culture are the idea of a world turned upside down, religious imagery as subversion, and the “carnival.”
