New Courses

SOCL 299 Stratification in India

The course explores India's caste system, an ancient hierarchical system that imposed roles, status and responsibilities on the basis of birth, family and community, touching on seemingly every form of human interaction. Though many claim that caste is a thing of the past. evidence is strong that it plays an ongoing role in social life today. This course explores the system's origins and theoretical foundations, its development over time, its characteristics and practices, and attempts at eradicating it.

Anthropology Seminar Descriptions

ANTH 320 Theory in Anthropology

A historical examination of the development of different theoretical perspectives in cultural anthropology. This course explores, compares, and critiques different schools of thought about human society and culture, from the 19th to the 21st centuries, looking at the ways in which anthropological scholars and those from related disciplines have attempted to understand and explain the human condition.

ANTH 386 Global Queer Activism

This course will critically examine the wide variety of approaches, tactics, discourses and objectives adopted by activists from around the globe in the effort to further LGBTQ+ rights, and discuss the ways that this activism centered on sexuality and/or gender identity intersects with race, class, religion, nationality and cultural identity. Although many nations around the world have experienced important advances over the last few decades in the effort to include LGBTQ+ populations, we cannot assume that progress on these issues is uniform or that it will look the same in different contexts.

The course will push students to consider the ways that Western LGBTQ+ identities cannot be imposed on other contexts uncritically, and to consider how global activism can complicate efforts in different localities, render certain identities vulnerable, or participate in neocolonialist forms of pinkwashing. Queer activism that is truly global and sensitive to cultural difference requires queering activist practices themselves, and creating equal partnerships rather than top-down approaches to spreading LGBTQ+ rights.

Sociology Seminar Descriptions

SOCL 365 Illness Narratives

This course examines first-person accounts of living with various illnesses, including the subjective experiences of illnesses that are mental/physical, acute/chronic, curable/fatal and age-related. Comparisons will be made across both historical and cultural contexts to highlight the socially constructed nature of health and aging. The class will engage the role of labeling theory, postmodern conceptions of health, and differences according to race, class, gender, sexual orientation and age.

SOCL 375 End of Life

This is a student-led seminar in the sociology of death and dying. During the first few weeks of the term, readings will offer a broad overview of what it is like to die and care for people who are dying in the contemporary United States. After a brief introduction to how sociologists approach and understand this landscape, students will participate in the selection of topics and readings. For the remainder of the term, students will learn and educate one another about the lines of inquiry in this subfield that interest them the most.

Seminar Permission Form

Department seminar courses require permission to enroll. Complete the online permission form by noon on April 5. It is available only online and can be found on the department's seminar page. Students will be notified by e-mail of their status for enrolling in a seminar and issued a permission number

Announcements & Events

Professor Germann Molz is pleased to announce that Hospitality & Society, the journal she has co-edited for the past decade, is celebrating its ten-year anniversary with a special issue marking this important milestone coming out in March, 2022. You can visit the journal's website here: https://www.intellectbooks.com/hospitality-society

Hospitality & Society

Join Professor Campbell for the opening reception of new art exhibition, "Art of the Soul."

March 19- April 2, 2022 Location: The Worcester PopUp at the JMAC 20B Franklin Street, Worcester, MA 01608 Please join us on Saturday, March 19th from 12:00- 3:00pm.

"Art of the Soul," created by members of Everyday Miracles Peer Recovery Support Center in collaboration with Professor Emily Campbell (Sociology) and Professor Víctor Pacheco (Visual Art) of College of the Holy Cross, features a series of photography and collage. In the works, members explore a range of themes including identity, beauty, vulnerability and transcendence. In a time characterized by uncertainty, their works celebrate the joy of new beginnings and hope for the future.

Everyday Miracles Peer Recovery Support Center is a memberrun community center for people recovering from addiction. Situated in downtown Worcester, Massachusetts, the center is open to the public and serves on average 100 people a day. This project was made possible in part through the generous support of the Greater Worcester Community Foundation.

Study Abroad

The department's study abroad advisor is Professor Jennie Germann Molz (jmolz@holycross. edu). Please contact her with any questions about how you can incorporate a study abroad experience – including semester, academic year, or Maymester programs -- into your sociology major or your anthropology major or minor. She will be hosting a zoom info session for current and prospective Sociology majors and Anthropology majors and minors on Thursday, April 21 from 3-4pm. If you would like to attend, please rsvp to jmolz@holycross.edu and Professor Germann Molz will send you the link!
