Hi there!

My name is Ezequiel Durand López; I'm 23 years old and I will be your FLA during this course!

I was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina (the city of dulce de leche –google it, it's delicious–, tango and asados). I got my B.A. in Linguistics and Literature at Universidad del Salvador in 2015, having previously been in an Erasmus Program in Universidad de Salamanca, Spain in 2014. I'm remotely pursuing a M.A. in Applied Linguistics to Spanish Teaching as a Foreign Language at Universidad Antonio de Nebrija in Madrid and working hard to teach better, more entertaining Spanish classes.

Even though Argentina is my birthplace, my family is from Spain (a somewhat common fact for people living in Buenos Aires) and part of my heart is there. In this sense, I might not only offer a view of Argentina and the rest of Latin America as a whole as regards culture, history, food or way of thinking, but also bring my Spanish experiences.

The most important thing here: you shall feel that this has a practical aim; therefore, we will not only talk and review previous material, but also watch Spanish movies, discuss current affairs of Hispanic world, learn natural idioms and expressions, a bit of history and even bake.

I'm looking forward to meeting you and learning together!

¡Un saludo!
