Biography/History:

The Jesuit Relations were reports from Jesuit missionaries beginning in 1611 in New France (Canada) that were sent to their superiors to update them as to the missionaries' progress in the conversion of Native American tribes.

In 1902 Reuben Gold Thwaites, secretary of the Wisconsin Historical Society, led the project to translate the Relations into English, unify, and cross-reference the reports. Compiled into 73 volumes, including two volumes of indices, the Relations comprise a large body of ethnographic material.

Scope and Content Note:

This collection, compiled by Charles E. Hudson, 1900-1904, contains letters requesting photographs of those involved with the translation, editing and publication of the Relations. Each of the 45 folders contains a letter or photograph responding to Hudson's request for a photograph. In most cases the respondents sent their photograph to Hudson. The collection is arranged alphabetically and the 46th folder contains miscellaneous correspondence, mostly from those unable to comply with Hudson's request.
