

“The Analysis of Wonder is both an engaging and enlightening presentation of the philosophy of Nicolai Hartmann, one of the major German philosophers of the first part of the 20th Century undeservedly little known in the English-speaking world. The book’s three parts clearly present Hartmann’s ontology, theory of values (both ethical and aesthetic ones) and personality, carefully drawing the major connections among them. Cicovacki’s book offers a well-balanced, clear introduction to these and other issues and promises to become the reference book for anyone wishing to know Hartmann’s philosophy.”

ROBERTO POLI, RESEARCH PROFESSOR, UNIVERSITY OF TRENTO, ITALY, AND PRESIDENT OF THE NICOLAI HARTMANN SOCIETY

“Cicovacki provides a lively, comprehensive introduction to Hartmann’s philosophy in a small package, written in a style that is not overly encumbered by scholarly jargon and technical apparatus, and balances well issues of contemporary relevance with detailed scholarship. It is not only a survey of Hartmann’s major ideas, but makes a case for reading Hartmann in light of certain of these ideas. It is an important contribution to a growing English-language literature on this neglected major German philosopher.”

KEITH R. PETERSON, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY, COLBY COLLEGE, USA

“This introduction to the life work of Nicolai Hartmann is, to my knowledge, the only book in English to present the entire range of Hartmann’s thought. It does so in lucid prose and with sufficient detail so that the reader new to Hartmann can take the measure of his procedure and its outcomes. It will be of great use to professional philosophers who are unfamiliar with him, and to students whom it should encourage to take up the study of this great and unique philosopher.”

EUGENE KELLY, PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY, NEW YORK INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY, USA

“This is a rewarding introduction to the thought of the last great metaphysician. Cicovacki shows how Hartmann avoids the temptation to over-systematize as he provides categories adequate for informed wonderment before the full splendor of reality.”
