CANTOR ART GALLERY EXHIBIT

O’Kane Hall

“Katrina Then and Now: Artists as Witness” curated by Daina Cheyenne Harvey, assistant professor of sociology at Holy Cross, brings together a myriad of contemporary artists whose work chronicles the relationship between disaster and art in New Orleans from 2005 to the present. Timed to coincide with the 10th anniversary of Katrina, this multimedia exhibition includes video, photography, painting, sculpture, and works on paper. Showcasing the social, political, and cognitive reactions through art to the disaster and its aftermath, the exhibition attempts to explore both how artists represented the disaster and how the disaster affected the cultural identity of New Orleans.

4:00 – 7:00 p.m.
